NEW FINANCE DIRECTOR TO BUILD THOMAS HOMES

Berkshire-based property developer Thomas Homes Ltd has appointed James Thomas as its Finance Director.

A Chartered Accountant, James joins the company from Ernst & Young where he worked in corporate finance. His new remit is to oversee the growth of Thomas Homes as it continues to develop conversion and new-build schemes with strong buyer appeal.

James brings a wealth of experience to the role, including international project work at Ernst & Young and Andersen Consulting for whom he served a 2 year secondment in San Francisco, USA.

Commenting on his appointment, James said "This is a great opportunity to expand one of the area's most respected developers. Since joining the company I've been struck by the infectious enthusiasm which runs through every aspect of the business."

Established in 1974, Thomas Homes Ltd is one of the largest privately owned residential property developers in the south of England. Known for the quality and individuality of its schemes, the company has an extensive portfolio that includes everything from groundbreaking micro-flats to listed building conversions. With an annual turnover of £20 million, it completes around six schemes a year, often taking on projects that present design or planning challenges.
